Richland & Sumter County Educators Recommend Wendy Brawley in District 70 House Primary Election

The SCEA Fund for Children & Public Education Recommends Wendy Brawley in District 70 House Runoff Election on May 16

COLUMBIA, SC – The South Carolina Education Association Fund for Children & Public Education voted overwhelmingly to recommend Wendy Brawley for the House of Representatives for SC District 70 (Richland & Sumter Counties).

“Ms. Brawley’s commitment to public education has been proven through her past service on the Richland School District One Board,” said Bernadette R. Hampton, President of The South Carolina Education Association. “Her public education background and work is evident to educators in District 70, which is why they showed strong support for her in the primary election.”

Educators felt strongly about Brawley’s commitment to public education, stating that all students deserve a world-class system due to the transformative powers that public education has on our students, communities and businesses. Equally, educators support Brawley’s view that public education levels the field to ensure all South Carolina children can learn and succeed.

The SCEA Fund’s candidate recommendation process is rigorous, thorough and bi-partisan, and is based on a candidates’ proven commitment to public education concerns, record of work and efforts in the field of public education. The process also includes candidate interviews on issues that are crucial to educators and the students they serve.
